Our country is on the threshold of a major socio-political event – the All-Belarusian People's Assembly. It will work in its new, constitutional status on April 24 and 25.

Tatyana Radyukevich, a livestock specialist and breeder at JSC Soligorsk Poultry Farm, elected from the Belarusian Union of Women in the Minsk Region, will take part in the work of the All-Union Council:

"Over three decades of sovereign development, we have gone through many trials. This year, the Republic of Belarus celebrates the 80th anniversary of liberation from the Nazi invaders. We remember how much the peace over our heads cost. Given NATO's ongoing activity at the Belarusian border, the drafts of the updated National Security Concept and Military Doctrine of Belarus will be submitted to the All-Union People's Assembly for approval. The result of these documents will be the opportunity to continue to live peacefully, study, work, raise children and make plans for the future. We will do this together, because together we are an invincible force."
