A trade union legal reception was held in Mstislavl. We found out what questions Mstislav residents addressed to its organizers.

Another legal trade union meeting was held at the district consumer society.

It was conducted by the chairman of the district trade union association Igor Valyuzhenich and the district prosecutor Vladimir Trivaylo.

The legal inspector of the regional organization of the Belarusian Trade Union of Trade, Consumer Cooperatives and Entrepreneurship Workers, Svetlana Saldunova, also answered questions from Mstislav residents.

The questions that the Mstislav residents brought to the reception concerned labor legislation. In particular, wages.

One of the city's residents was interested in how payment for the traveling nature of the work should be made correctly.

— I spend a significant part of my working time away from my main place of work. I travel to sites. I would like to know how my work should be paid ? — the Mstislav resident addressed the organizers of the reception.

Trade union representatives explained to her that she was entitled to compensation for her traveling nature. This is regulated by Article 99 of the Labor Code of the Republic of Belarus.

“ Employees are provided compensation for the mobile and traveling nature of their work, shift work, permanent work on the road, and work outside their place of residence (field allowance), ” noted Igor Valyuzhenich.

During the reception, a representative of the consumer society approached her for clarification on the issue of paying a bonus for part-time work.

“ According to current legislation, the general rules for bonuses, allowances, surcharges and other types of material incentives and remuneration that apply to the company's main employees apply to part-time workers, ” explained Svetlana Saldukova.
